LOCAL AUTHOR VINCENT JAMES WILL HOST A BOOK READING

Local author Vincent James, writing as Jackson Badgenoone (pronounced Badge-No-One), will host a book reading at the Eastern Cabarrus Historical Society Museum on Sunday, May 22, 2016 at 2pm. The museum is located at 1100 N. Main Street in historic downtown Mount Pleasant. At the event Vincent will share passages from the soon to be released audio book version of his debut novel, The Hidden Treasure of Dutch Buffalo Creek.

The story is framed in current day Cabarrus County and Rowan County, North Carolina. Prompted by a discovery in 2014 AD, the story unfolds with a series of flashbacks that lead the central character back to the creek at the end of that year of reflection. There he discovers real treasure that he hopes to share with his readers.

The book contains ten translucent memoirs layered in historical fiction. It explores the cause and consequences of conflict. Faith, hope, and love emerge as forces that overcome the challenges encountered by a tightly knit clan. An Heirloom edition contains resources that amplify character point of view.

Print versions of the book are available locally at the Literary Bookpost in Salisbury, several retail establishments in Concord and Mount Pleasant, and at all four branches of the Cabarrus County library system. Print and eBook versions are also available online at Amazon.com and Barnes & Noble resellers.

The Hidden Treasure of Dutch Buffalo Creek is the first of several works scheduled for publication. More about the series and the book can be found at www.hiddentreasurenovels.com.
